The Anarchists Likely to Swing.

CHICAGO, May 6.—[Special Telegram.]—There has been a decided improvement in the condition of affairs in Chicago during the day, and people's apprehension of future troubles is gradually being lessened. The cause of this feeling is due, more than anything else, to the determination and activity which has been displayed by the city authorities since Tuesday's massacre by the anarchists. The few strikers who were found in the city were very quiet. They seemed dispirited and refused to talk about the situation or their intentions. When the reporter asked them about their meetings to-day, they said they were going to do or what they thought was of no interest to anyone outside of their own association. The whole appearance of things in that vicinity looked very much as if the backbone of the strike were broken, and as if most of the boys would be glad to return to their places so recently vacated by them if they could only do so without appearing to do violence to their feelings of self respect and manhood.

When the anarchists have really helped the capitalists, and damaged the cause of many workmen who have just grievances. Everything was extremely quiet around the mayor's office, it being in marked contrast with the bustle of the preceding day. The mayor was late in arriving, having been extremely fatigued by the pressure of the excitement under which he has labored since the troubles began. As on the day previous he was constantly visited by prominent citizens, who gave advice, but there was nothing amounting to a demonstration during the day.

When interviewed by a reporter this afternoon the mayor said he had been talking strike until he was sick of it. He had spent two hours this morning in riding about the lumber districts and other places where there have been disturbances, and his proclamation seemed to have been obeyed. There were no crowds and everything was quiet. He thinks that the shooting Tuesday night had led the strikers to see that it is useless for them to act as they have been doing. In fact, the backbone of the strike is broken. The police are alert and ready for any emergency, and in short time the trouble will be over. In view of the declaration of the state's attorney in effect that he has discovered and is in possession of all the names of the conspirators, spies, fielden and schwaig in the wholesale slaughter of Tuesday night, the situation has assumed a serious aspect for these notorious anarchists. It is a general opinion among leading members of the bar that their crimes are well defined, and under the most circumstantial interpretation of the law, are punishable by death. With such opinions it is naturally certain that the nation's trio of exponents of nihilism is a matter of the near future. The question of their doom is awaiting the action of the grand jury, and methods prescribed for their punishment are numerous. It was recommended by some that at the order of a judge, a special grand jury should be impaneled at an early day, and proceed without delay. In times like these it was considered that the sooner an example was made of such lawless and criminal men, the more effective it would be in suppressing such men in the future. In consequence with the lawyers' regard to the possibility of the hanging of the trio many points of interest were developed.

"You may rest assured," said the gentleman, "that the time has come when the city of Chicago has an opportunity to display action in the treatment and disposal of a most dangerous class of criminals, and the case of a class of rioters and incendiaries whose power menaces at all times law, order and property. The prompt action of the local officials in the capture and holding of Spies, Schwab and Fielden, is commendable, but should only be considered an initial step to the disposal of these fiends on the gallows."

"Do you think it is possible under the present laws to carry their penalty to that point?"

"I can be no doubt about it. It is a well known fact that these men aided and were instigators of a riot movement which resulted in numerous deaths. Viewed from the statutory point of view, they were accessory, and are amenable as principals. Evidence against these men would be cumulative, and if they were accessories, the villainous plot that resulted in the death of a number of innocent parties, the guilt would be in proportion as the injury to life was great or small."

"Could the previous speeches of these men be offered in evidence against them?"

"They would be important factors in the case, and would be acceptable in defining the position of defiance to law and disregard for human life which the speakers so frequently evinced."

The Situation in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 6.—[Special Telegram.]—There has been no apparent improvement in the industrial situation within the past two to four hours. The thousands of strikers in the southwestern section of the city still persist in defying the law. There were no outbreaks yesterday at the corner of Eighteenth street and Center avenue, in which the police officers were subjected to a heavy fire of bullets and stones, from an ambulance. The shooting was returned, but with no effect save that of scattering the rioters. The situation in the lumber districts this morning was much the same as it has been since the beginning of the week. There are enough of wagemongers willing to return to work to start up in full operation every mill, factory and yard in the district, but owing to the hostile incendiary attitude of the anarchists and socialists the peaceably inclined are afraid to resume operations. Proprietors and manufacturers are as much afraid as the employees, and no attempt will be made to start up until the excitement subsides and property and life can be protected. The three-fourths of the entire force went into the McCormick factory this morning, which is a larger number of men than have been at work there since Monday. Sergeant Enright and thirty-five police were on guard at the gates. No crowd of rioters were collected. Edward Qissow, a Bohemian, was caught throwing stones at the police and arrested.

THE MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

was posted in hand bills throughout the district in English and German. His warning seemed to have the desired effect, for no crowds were congregating along the black road anywhere else, excepting that from the big crowd at Eighteenth street and Center avenue. The crowd of nihilists there this morning was much smaller and quieter than usual.

Armour's gun factory at Thirty-fifth street and the river was this morning at a stand still with ten policemen on guard, for the property from the rioters.

Last night was one of comparative quiet in the disorderly districts. The socialists, Poles and Bohemians in the vicinity of Eighteenth street and Center avenue conducted their riotous conduct until very late, and the police were kept from firing into the crowds by the presence of women and children, although the latter were as disorderly as the men. Women in a delicate condition were caught hurling stones, and refused to move on when ordered to do so by the police. They were taken to the police station, and by paying frequent visits to the police stations at Twelfth street and Himmam street. After night fall the Bohemians adopted the tactics of pelting the police from the windows of their dwellings. Hundreds of shots were fired by the police, but generally they fired high.

THE SITUATION ON THE RAILROADS

is still very bad. The most encouraging feature is the attitude of the switchmen, who resolved not to interfere in the strike of the freight handlers. The property of the roads involved in the present turmoil is guarded by officers. Thus far no serious trouble has occurred, the strikers contenting themselves with fighting their employers with strategy known only to true diplomats.

A party of police from the East Chicago avenue station made a search of the anarchist headquarters at 105 North Wabash street this morning and seized about a dozen stand of rifles of a very venerable pattern. None of the anarchists were about, so no arrests were made.

All the employees at Pullman are still out. No disturbance of any kind has occurred there. Along Desplaines street and in the vicinity of the hay market at Randolph street, the scene of Tuesday night's riot, quietness prevailed this morning. There was very little of the excitement of yesterday. Market square was filled with farmers' wagons and the work of selling produce and vegetables. There were no big crowds on the streets and the people were "moving on" without any orders from the police, who were still patrolling the sidewalks.

THE DEAD AND WOUNDED.

The county physician, Dr. Hennin, in a report made at midnight, said he had examined thirty-nine wounded officers and had notified of nine more whom he was unable to reach, but would see this morning. Of the wounded examined by him he believed that three are seriously injured. Two are already dead. Of the anarchists one is dead, six dangerously or fatally hurt, and thirteen more not seriously wounded.

PARSONS STILL HIDING.

Up to 9 o'clock this morning no important arrests had been made by the police in connection with the dynamite outrage. Parsons was still at large. His wife was taken into custody last evening but proved of little value as a means of apprehending her husband. Mrs. Parsons is imbued with all the mad frenzy of socialism and boasted that her husband would induce her at any time to go to the gallows for the cause. She turned her loose after a while. Meanwhile she will be closely watched and should she undertake to communicate with her anarchist spouse it will be a signal for his speedy capture.

There is a great feeling of confidence apparent this morning in the ability of the authorities to preserve the peace. The outlook for the future is bright. The police expect that they may be called upon to disperse gatherings in certain portions of the city, but for the most part they believe that all the leading instigators in the recent troubles have been caught, and the collection of evidence against the conspirators is proceeding rapidly.

EACH HARVESTERS

At the Deering harvesters' meeting the situation is somewhat critical. A meeting of strikers was appointed at a meeting held at 105 North Wabash street, and the case proceeded without delay. In times like these it was considered that the sooner an example was made of such lawless and criminal men, the more effective it would be in suppressing such men in the future. In consequence with the lawyers' regard to the possibility of the hanging of the trio many points of interest were developed.

vester works' employees reported for duty this morning. The proprietors of the Deering works closed their doors this morning to grant a working day of eight hours and an advance of 15 per cent on former pay. The men return to work tomorrow morning.

A report was received from the county hospital this morning that Officers Barrett, Flynn, Miller, Hansen, and others, who were the hope of recovery. The remainder of the wounded men are resting easily, and will probably recover. Let us hope that the civilians shot, is in a dying condition. An incendiary fire was started in the lumber yard at North Avenue bridge this morning. A can containing explosives to which a fuse was attached was found in one of the yards, confirming the view that the hand of the incendiary is at work. It was turned over to the police. The police raided the socialist headquarters at 38 Clayburn avenue this morning, but found nothing beyond red flags and an incendiary banner.

An officer of the police department said this afternoon that it is irrefragably believed that Stange was the man who threw the bomb. They are trying to find Burnett, so as to fully identify Stange. The police decline to say anything regarding the man named Carpenter arrested yesterday.

DEATH OF OFFICER BARRETT.

Officer Barrett, who was killed Tuesday night, died at 11:30 this forenoon, making a total of three deaths to date among the injured policemen.

CHICAGO STILL DISTURBED.

Freight Trains Blocked—Dynamite Found in a Lumber Yard.

CHICAGO, May 6.—[Special Telegram.]—Freight trains at the Western Indiana road at Forty-first street and Grand Crossing quitted work this afternoon, and virtually blocked freight traffic on the Western Indiana, Wabash, Grand Trunk, Chicago & Atlantic and Eastern Illinois railroads. Several attempts were made to get the trains moving, but they were only partially successful. The strikers claim to be getting $45 per month, and working twelve hours a day, and ask for $10 per month advance.

Workmen in the lumber yard at Cook Island, in such absolute hostility to the interests of the west that if the bill became law, it would be a bushel of grain nor a pound of beef or pork brought east from the west. The strikers claim to be getting $45 per month, and working twelve hours a day, and ask for $10 per month advance.

NATIONAL DEBATING CLUB.

Statesmen at Washington Discuss Inter-State Commerce and Female Suffrage.

CLEVELAND'S COMING VETOES.

Mr. Ingalls' Frees His Mind on Short Hours—A Vote to Be Taken on Tuesday—Pension Legislation—Other Matters.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—On motion of Mr. Sherman, the senate agreed that the anti-Chinese immigration bill and the bill to treat the equal companion of man, the Rock Springs riot, shall be made special orders for Monday, May 10.

Mr. Cullom called up the inter-state commerce bill.

Mr. Frye called up the State Indian bridge bill.

The chair stated that the senate had already given unanimous consent to continue the consideration of the commerce bill during the morning hour and throughout the day, from day to day, until disposed of. The commerce bill was therefore taken before the senate.

Mr. Butler opposed the bill.

Mr. Sherman offered an amendment providing that the provision of the bill against receiving more for shorter than for longer hauls should be stricken out, as authorizing any railroad company to charge as much for shorter as for longer hauls. He did this, he said, to protect the companies from holding that the bill gave them an implied authority to charge as much for a haul of one mile as for a haul of 100 miles.

Mr. Sherman said that the bill was a haul clause, as now amended, was like a crowbar thrust into the works of a watch. Mr. Sherman said that the bill was a haul clause, as now amended, was like a crowbar thrust into the works of a watch.

TROUBLE AMONG THE INDIANS.

Land, as Usual, the Cause of the Trouble—The Indians Rebel Against the Agent's Authority—Peace Reached.

A Compromise Reached.

VALENTINE, Neb., May 6.—[Special Telegram.]—Information has just reached here of a serious disturbance at Rosebud Agency three days ago. A band of Indians are living upon land which Major Wright, the agent, considers unfit for cultivation. He ordered the Indians to move upon tillable soil, or go without their farming implements. The Indians refused to move, and came to the agency in force, fully armed, and demanded their implements or they would take them by force. A council was held. The agent refused their demand unless they complied with his orders, which they refused to do. The agent then ordered the council room, being forcibly followed by a large number of infuriated Indians into his private quarters. On his refusal to comply with their demand, the enraged Indians who threatened his life if he did not leave the reservation. The police came to the rescue. Knives and pistols were drawn on the agent, but for the moment it looked as if a bloody conflict would ensue as the infuriated Indians were finally induced to desist by prominent men on a promise of compromise, the agent giving them their implements, and the Indians agreeing to give them a barrel of sugar and other provisions in proportion. This was a compromise, and the agent realized the power of the new settlers as they realized their power less condition if an outbreak should take place.

A LOST SUIVEYOR.

VALENTINE, Neb., May 6.—[Special Telegram.]—The party sent in search of J. J. McCullough, who was missing since the day of the battle, having failed to find any clue to the missing man, although careful search was made by six men over the section where his horse and instruments were found last week. All hope of his being alive is now given up, as he had been drinking heavily before the battle, and was not seen since. Boardman creek, seventy miles southwest of here, and not within thirty miles of any habitation, the conclusion is he was drowned in Boardman creek.

Greece's Reply Unsatisfactory—Foreign Ambassadors Withdraw From Athens—Gladstone Speaks Menacingly.

ATHENS, May 5.—The Greek cabinet met this afternoon and framed reply to the collective note of the powers. The reply was of the powers consider it inadequate, and foreign ministers will leave Athens to-morrow morning.

Mr. Gladstone Talks Up.

LONDON, May 6.—Mr. Gladstone, in the house of commons this afternoon, stated that unless Greece complied with the terms of the collective note, the powers would forthwith take steps requisite to compel compliance. He said that the powers were not prepared to see the Turkish army massing and he has ordered a similar movement on the part of his troops.
